Business Spotlight:

After much digging and calling to learn about the history of the Log Cabin Motel, little was known about the beginning but the middle contained some fond memories for the Wynn family. In the early days, around 1924 David K. Rankin and his brother Hugh built the Rankin Auto Court cabins along the Log Cabin Motel cabins. This was during the time when the automobile was becoming popular, so the lodging industry was born for those traveling to Yellowstone National Park. In the beginning, the cabins only contained beds and pot-bellied stoves. A community bathroom was in the middle of all the cabins for the toilets and showers. Later in 1950, Esther O'Halloran and her husband bought the Log Cabin Motel. Then in the 1960's, Jean and Mable Morrison bought and took over the Log Cabin Motel. It was under the Morrison's ownership that they added individual bathrooms for each cabin. In 1971 Ross and Thayle Wynn purchased the Log Cabin Motel. They had their daughters Venice and Loila run it for them. It was and still is a seasonal motel, only open from May to October. In 1983 Venice purchased the Log Cabin Motel from her parents. She said she tried at different times to change the yellow color of the cabins, but no matter what she tried it didn't work and they were always suppose to be the color they still are today. Her mom, Thayle remembers the guests always complimenting how really nice the cabins were and always enjoyed the chimes from the Zion Lutheran Church. During this time the Log Cabin Motel was even enjoyed by some celebrities such as Mike Ferrell from M*A*S*H, and Michael Keaton stayed while hunting in the area.

In 2001, Venice moved on and sold the Log Cabin Motel to Holly Chavez their current owner. She runs the cabins along with her family each summer. There are 9 cozy cabins just waiting for you to enjoy. They have been more modernized today with full bathrooms, cable, refrigerators, microwaves, coffee pots, and the new necessity...Wi-Fi. There is a bar-b-que grill and fire pit in the center for their guests to use. During the evenings the guests like to visit and get to know each other in the nice little community atmosphere. This would be a nice place to rent for family reunions also. To learn more or to make your reservation today, please call the Log Cabin Motel at 208-652-3956 or visit their website at www.logcabinmotelidaho.com
