Business Spotlight:

Reinke Grain

Our featured business this week houses themselves in the little brown hut that sits on your left as you come into town. This is a staple in Ashton. Reinke Grain has been serving Ashton for 66 years. They buy and sell commodities. When spring approaches they are ready to sell their stock of wheat and barley. They do this part every spring to empty their silos so they are ready to fill them up come August during grain harvest. They focus everyday on providing the highest market for our Ashton farmers and pride themselves on making sure the demand is high for the products we grow in Ashton! So if you are a farmer and are in need of some wheat or barley, give Dave or Chris a call today at 652-7449, or you can stop by their unique looking building and they'll be glad to help you with your farming needs!

Come and enjoy some yummy Mexican food!

Upper Mesa Falls Art Exhibit

The Caribou-Targhee National Forest is hosting a photography exhibit of early Warm River Settlers at the Mesa Falls Visitor Center. Admission is included in the entrance fee to Mesa Falls ($5 unless you have one of the passes.) This slice of history focuses on some of the colorful characters that settled the Warm River Area. People with ties to the area history are especially invited, as not all photos are identified. The exhibit is currently available and will remain at the visitor center until it closes at the end of the season. The visitor Center is open 9:30-5:30 daily until the end of September.

Thank You!

On Sunday, August 10, 2014 we stopped in your town for gas, but the motorcycle appeared to have a dead battery. A gentleman said he would go home and get a set of battery cables. When he returned the bike started and he insisted we take the cables with us in case we needed them.

The wife and I want to thank those individuals who showed us the generosity. Since that time I have been told that your town is a friendly place. We like to think that our town, Pinedale Wyoming also has many friendly people. It is rewarding to know that there still are people who care about others.

Again, thanks for the kindness showed to us.

*Thanks,
Donna & Mike Grove
Pinedale, WY*
